

Donald N.S. Unger, MFA, PhD
9 Judson Road
Worcester, Massachusetts 01605-1217
(h) 508.853.4594 www.donunger.com
donunger@hotmail.com

EDUCATION:

PhD, English, Composition & Rhetoric, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
MFA, Creative Writing, Fiction, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor
BA, Literature/Writing, Minor in Education, Columbia University

JOURNALISM & EDITORIAL WORK:

2001-Present, Contributing Writer, Knowledge@Wharton

Also contribute to sister sites: China, India, Latin America

2014, Contributing Writer, the Economist Intelligence Unit

1998-2003, Political Commentator, NPR affiliate, WFCR, Amherst, Massachusetts

1997-2005, Contributing Writer, Holy Cross Magazine

1996, Editor and Publisher, Worcester Underage: an Anthology of High School Writing

Compiled, edited, and published a collection of fiction and poetry by local students

1995-2001, Founding Editor, Princeton Arts Review

1995-1996, Faculty Advisor, The Talon, Daniel Webster College

1995, Parenting Columnist and Education Correspondent, The Auburn News

PUBLICATIONS:

Books: “The Learning Curve: Organizational Strategy and the New Imperative for Success,” (forthcoming, 2014; primary author without attribution)

Men Can: The Changing Image and Reality of Fatherhood in America, 2010, Temple University Press

Articles: More than 150 articles, categories including: Business; Technology; Environmental Issues; Book Reviews; Education; Gender and Family; Politics: sample articles.

Radio: More than thirty commentary pieces for local NPR affiliates: list and links.

Fiction and Poetry: More than 20 short stories, and a few poems, published in literary magazines in the US, Canada, and Europe: list and links. Short Fiction Collection: Brokenhearted Ironies